

Dear Parents,

We will be starting our next science unit. To begin this unit our class will make observations of soil and its components. We will try to answer the question "Is soil alive?".

To help your child at home please reread our sections assigned from our science book. Discuss each section and the vocabulary words included in each section.

You can also enrich your child's understanding of our soil unit by observing the soil around your house. Is it alive? What observations can your son or daughter make about this soil?

Have fun and please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
